Gables are the predominant feature of the Medford Farmhouse. It's a T-plan building, two storys tall with gables on each of the three ends of the 'T' as well as two additional gables on the north side. To the east is a two bay long, one and one-half story kitchen wing with outside fireplace. The latter part appears to be the earliest portion of the dwelling.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The house is quite typical of the late 19th century and early part of this century. The fact that a portion of the structure dates probably from the mid-19th century, is of interest for this study of vernacular structures in Dorchester County.
